SAR OF LOCAL ANESTHETICS

Hydrophobic Intermediate Alkyl Chain Hydrophilic

- ⇒ The structure of most of the useful local anesthetics contain hydrophilic and hydrophobic groups that are usually separated by an intermediate alkyl chain.
- ⇒ The hydrophilic group is usually a tertiary amine
- ⇒ The hydrophobic groups usually aromatic residue.
- ⇒ In almost of all cases the linkage between the aromatic group and the alkyl chain is either of the ester or amide type and nature of this linkage is a determinant of certain pharmacological properties of these drugs.
